Born One

The first fixture is a born-digital document with a real text layer.
Its lines are placed one by one so the page layout is fixed by this program and not by a layout engine whose output could drift between versions.

A second paragraph follows after a wider vertical gap, so the paragraph grouping of the extractor has something to separate on this page.

Second Page

The second page carries its own heading and a single paragraph, which the extractor must attribute to page two and nest under that page.